

HOW TO MAKE A PARACORD BRACELET

FISHTAIL PATTERN

You will need: 2,5m of paracord, a side release buckle, a scissor and matches or a lighter.

Melt the ends of the paracord, and measure the size of your wrist.

Take the piece of paracord. Fold it in two and slide it into the buckle hole.

Place a loop over the double cord and tighten it. Leave a small end of the cord, this will be hidden under the knots.

5

Take the piece of paracord. On one side, fold it in two and slide it into the buckle hole.

6

Put a loop on the cord and tighten it. Now you can try your bracelet on and correct the size if necessary.

7

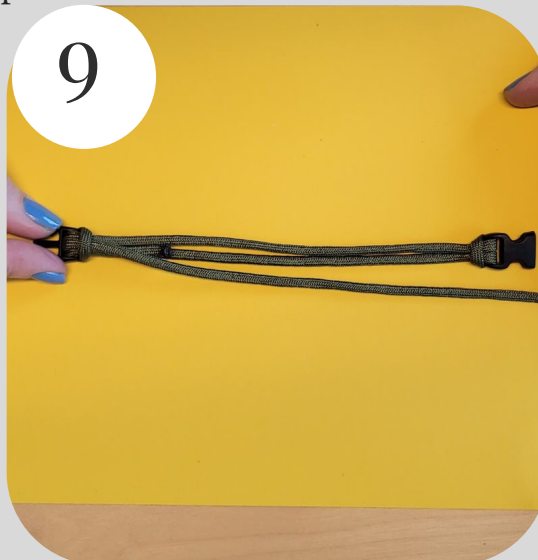

Insert the end of the cord from the inside of the buckle as shown in the photo.

8

Place the end of the paracord under the cord.

9

Pull out the cord. You still have the option to resize, make the paracord bracelet smaller or bigger.

10

Place the clasp as shown in the photo.

11

Place the loose cord behind the main cord and then tighten it.

12

Next, place the main cord as shown in the photo and tighten it.

13

Place it under the main cord again and tighten it.

14

Continue weaving. Now you just need to repeat the same movements until the very end.

15

Do it until you reach the second half of the buckle.

16

Tie the last knot tightly, and place the cord as in the photo.

Place it between the cords. The next photo is a view from the inside of the bracelet.

The inner side of the bracelet!

Tighten the knot and stretch the cord along the bracelet.

Cut the cord with scissors leaving the tip about 5 mm. Using a lighter to melt the end of the cord. Press down on the melted tip with scissors.

Solid paracord bracelet with side release - buckle is ready!
